Case Study: Budco

When Budco became an Enertron client, they already had a server they acquired from their previous service provider. When one of the server's redundant hard drives failed, it took the server down in with it, and the failure was not covered by warranty.

The Enertron Remote Monitoring and Maintenance team were immediately alerted to the problem, and within hours, we spun up Budco's entire operation into the Enertron cloud, which allowed them to return to business as usual with minimal interruption. Enertron promptly replaced the server drive and Budco made a seamless transition back to their environment.
